

TieTite - Protective cleaning cover for indoor units

Spills and splashes are an inevitable part of coil cleaning and this problem is even more apparent when working in areas where equipment and property could be damaged.

Traditionally, the conscientious engineer has had to lay dust sheets and tarpaulins to provide protection - but this can be ineffective, time consuming and disruptive.

TieTite is a quick and easy solution enabling mess-free cleaning. These covers have been designed to stop spills and splashes whilst cleaning wall mounted units, and are secured using a drawstring. They come complete with access holes that allow the system to be easily cleaned - while keeping splashes within the cover. These splashes are directed into a drain tube, which should be placed in a bucket - allowing any run off to be caught and disposed of. Available in 2 handy sizes
